Important Events This Week:

- No Homework Packet Due This Week - Wednesday

A big thank you, again, parents, for encouraging your child to participate in Reading Month. I am so proud of EVERY ONE of my students for taking on the challenge of reading the extra amount this past month. You should also be very proud of your children. It will be a lot of fun!

There will be homework sent home again this week on Wednesday and will be due back next Wednesday.

Thank you again, parents, for all of your support. We are in the home stretch of second grade and can see the finish line. We still have lots of work to do, so please keep encouraging your child to keep the pace they've set with working so hard all year thus far.

Call anytime if you have questions.
